Chinese leader, PM stress ties in choreographed visit

Chinese President Hu Jintao's state visit to the nation's capital Thursday was a carefully choreographed show of Sino-Canadian friendship, free of any interaction with journalists and bolstered by bused-in crowds of the foreign leader's supporters.

If there was any awkwardness over remarks made by the head of Canada's spy agency about the influence of Chinese intelligence agents over certain unnamed Canadian politicians, it didn't show.

In Hu's meetings with Gov. Gen. Michaëlle Jean and Prime Minister Stephen Harper, there were only expressions of friendship and the hope that the 40-year-old diplomatic relationship would keep growing keep growing.

Harper and Hu signed an agreement that would allow for more Chinese to visit Canada. Hu also agreed to clear the way for Canadian beef to be exported to China.

"President Hu, we have just begun our discussions.

Damage control

• Prime Minister Stephen Harper has been trying to shore up Canadian-Chinese relations since 2006, when he took public shots against Beijing over human-rights issues.

We have many matters to discuss across a range of issues," Harper said to Hu as they met in his Parliament Hill office. "Some of those are strictly bilateral matters of course, but I know we will also be exchanging views in advance of the very important G20 summit we have coming up in a couple of days."

Hu spoke of expanded trade and strategic co-operation and geopolitical issues between Canada and China.

There was no mention in any of the public speeches Thursday of human rights, or of the activities of Chinese agents that Canadian Security Intelligence Service director Dick Fadden had referred to in a CBC-TV interview earlier in the week.

Accused in Leclair murder charged in deaths of former spouses

TIM WIECLAWSKI tim.wieclawski@metronews.ca

DEATHS An Ottawa man accused of killing a woman and taking over her apartment has been charged with two more murders in connection with the disappearance of two women dating back to 1990.

Camille Cleroux, 56, appeared in court on Friday to face first-degree murder charges in connection with the disappearances of Lise Roy, who was 27 when she was last seen in 1990, and Jean Rock, aged 32 when she went missing in 2003.

The bodies of the two women have not been located.

According to police, both women were spouses of Cleroux and neither of the women had ever been reported missing to police. Family members contacted by investigators believed the women had simply moved away and had no further contact with their families.

Cleroux was arrested on June 2, following an investigation into the disappearance of 64-year-old Paula Leclair.

She had been reported missing by her son on May 29 after he discovered Cleroux living in her apartment on the ninth floor of an apartment building on Fairlea Crescent.

At first Cleroux told police that Leclair given him the unit after winning $50,000 in the lottery, but police said he later told them where to find her body

Following his arrest, Major Crime investigators received information that caused them to examine the disappearance of two of Cleroux's former spouses.

2.5% tax hike 'attainable': Watson

Mayoral candidate slams 'four terrible years of financial wandering'

TIM WIFCI AWSKI

If Jim Watson is elected mayor, property taxes will not increase by more than 2.5 per cent, he promised on Thursday.

"If we can go better than that without crippling public services we'll work to that, but you have to set a threshold and set the bar and work all year to achieve that," he said. "2.5 per cent is something that is very attainable.

Though it would still be a challenge, Watson said it would be achieved with municipal funds opening up through provincial uploading, improving city's legal services and reducing em-

Watson took aim at Mayor Larry O'Brien and Bay Ward Coun. Alex Cullen, his two most likely challengers, saying the city has endured "four terrible years of financial wandering.

He pointed to the snap decision to purchase 226 new articulated buses, the flawed procurement of a next stop announcement system for buses, and the construction of a new nearly $100 million bus garage, he called "the Garagemahal" as examples of "not sensible" spending.

O'Brien will announce whether or not he plans to run again on June 29.

Cullen responded by saying that since property taxes are determined by the cost of providing services, Watson should also identify the services that he intends to cut or cap.

Lansdowne concerns raised

DELEGATIONS On the first day of public delegations on the redevelopment of Lansdowne Park, representatives of the city's volunteer advisory committees raised a number of concerns with the proposal from the Ottawa Sports and Entertainment Group.

Chris Mulholland, vicechair of the Ottawa Built Heritage Advisory Committee, urged council to reject the plan as presented. Plans to move the historic Horti-culture Building, he said must be considered absolutely unacceptable."

Brian Barrett, chair of the Arts, Heritage and Culture Advisory Committee, echoed concerns over the movement of the Horticulture Building and the preservation of mature trees. He also criticized the decision to build the stadium at Lansdowne.

Locating the stadium at Lansdowne also presents traffic and transportation issues which have not been adequately examined, Shawn Menard, vice-chair of the Pedestrian and Transit Advisory Committee said.

Some 106 speakers are scheduled to speak to council over Thursday and Friday. A final vote on the redevelopment plan has

Inline skater's trek for cancer funds rolling through Ottawa

CHARITY Twenty-one-yearold Daniel Cloutier is nearly two months into a cross-Canada inline skate trek to raise money for the Canadian Cancer Society and he's starting to feel it.

"You get to see the whole country at 20 km/h. That's something pretty special, but physically and mentally I'm getting pretty tired," said Cloutier from just outside of Smith Falls, Ont.

The journey began on May 1 in Vancouver and will end in Halifax on July 24. He's been skating around four hours and covering 50 to 75 kilometres per day.

On Friday, Cloutier will be rolling through Ottawa before heading out to Montreal, though he will drive back here to celebrate Canada Day with a booth in the Sparks Street Mall.

He is heading into his fourth year at the Collège universitaire de Saint-Boniface in Winnipeg. He was inspired to skate across the country after seeing Sheldon Kennedy make the journey in 1998. He chose to do it for cancer research after losing his uncle to cancer three years ago.

Leaders agree to disagree?

Global leaders meeting for the next three days in Canada will have to paper over gaping differences after discouraged negotiators in last-minute talks made little progress on how to repair the world's economy.

Sources tell The Canadian Press that the final hours of talks among G20 negotiators - known as 'sherpas" because they do the heavy lifting before the summit - yielded little in the way of substantive agreement.

Plans to map out the future of the fragile global economic recovery, financial regulation, international development and climate change were up in the air, sources said.

over how quickly budget deficits need to be brought under control.

Instead of agreeing to deep budget cuts in indebted countries, they opted for watered-down targets, and pushed the IMF recommendations back into an annex that will be attached to the official communique, sources say.

Obama wrote to the G20 last week, putting forward medium-term fiscal targets but also urging countries to stand ready to increase stimulus if need be. But in Europe, where markets are demanding quick action on growing deficits, governments want to take stiff action.

It was a division that was in plain sight on Thursday.

"There is no room for more deficit spending. The past few months have shown us that the risk is elsewhere," Manuel Barrosso, the head of the European Commission. "Without fiscal consolidation, we spend our way into a new crisis.

Fiscal measures will take place at different paces according to circumstances, and hard targets for the G20 are still being negotiated, Finance Minister Jim Flaherty said.

News in brief

ARRESTS Byron Sonne and his common-law wife, Kristen Peterson, are at the heart of an ongoing security investigation that culminated in their arrests this week, just days before the G20 summit opens in Toronto. Sonne, 37, an Internet security expert, is charged with, among other things, possession of explosives, weapons dangerous, intimidating a justice system participant and mischief. Peterson, also 37, is charged with possession of an explosive device and possession of weapon for dangerous purpose. Police will only say the case relates to G20 summit security.

BANK TAX Finance Minister Jim Flaherty says the global bank tax "gets much more attention than it deserves," and stresses that G20 leaders must focus on more pressing financial reforms when they meet this week. He said Canada and other countries whose financial sectors were not bailed out by public money oppose the idea.

Queen, 84, will have busy schedule

The oldest reigning monarch in British history (although still five years shy of the longest reign, which is held by her great, great grandmother Queen Victoria) starts her tour of Canada Monday in Halifax helping celebrate the 100th anniversary of the Canadian navy.

By the time matters wrap up on July 6 in Toronto, Queen Elizabeth, age 84, will have visited the very 21st-century makers of the BlackBerry in Waterloo, Ont., and a state-of-the-art, 3-D film and TV production complex.

In between she'll be delivering a stone from the meadows of Runnymede, locale of the 1215 signing of the Magna Carta, to the construction site of the new Canadian Museum of Human Rights in Winnipeg.

She'll take in Sunday church service in Toronto and spend that afternoon at the Woodbine betting track for the 150th annual running of the Queen's Plate.

The Queen will also plant her fifth tree on the grounds of Rideau Hall, the Governor General's residence in Ottawa. The first, a sugar maple planted in 1951 when she was still Princess Elizabeth, is now a strapping adult. The latest, a red oak, may still be standing into the 22nd century.

The itinerary is almost enough to induce time-travel vertigo.

Robert Finch, the dominion chairman of the Monarchist League of Canada, marvels at the diversity of the tour itinerary, "with lots and lots of chances for the public to get there and see — and that's important."

"It's a gruelling one, too," he said in an interview. "Holy cow, I wouldn't want to do it."

Court sets aside Black's fraud charges

LAW An American court ruling could lift some of the tarnish from former Canadian media baron Conrad Black's name but is unlikely to lead to his exoneration and release from prison.

The U.S. Supreme Court set aside three of Black's convictions of mail fraud convictions and sent them back to a lower court on the basis that a law used to convict Black of fraud — and others of white collar crimes — was too broad.

It has left ultimate resolution of Black's case to an appeals court, which means his fraud convictions still stand until dealt with there.

Black is likely to gain some satisfaction from the ruling but the fraud convictions are the least of his worries, said Chicago lawyer Andrew Stoltmann, who closely watched Black's trial but a fourth conviction for obstruction of justice will keep him behind bars.

"I don't think he's going anywhere any time soon," Stoltmann said in a telephone interview.

"The fact that he's convicted on the obstruction of justice charge is a horribly bad fact for him. I think he's going to get some time shaved off of his sentence but the entire conviction will not be overturned."

Scientists replicate lungs with microchip

ANATOMY In research that blurs the boundary between the biological and mechanical, scientists have created a device that reproduces in miniature a person's living, breathing

Based on computer microchip technology, researchers at Harvard University engineered the "lung-on-a-chip" by placing layers of human lung and blood vessel cells in channels, then encasing them in a translucent, porous polymer.

Channels containing blood vessel cells act as stand-ins for the lungs' capillaries and carry a nutrient-rich culture medium that mimics blood and keeps the whole system alive. And because the device is see-through, scientists can use high-tech imaging to follow the inner workings of the surrogate human lung. Their goal is to employ the simple gadget as a non-invasive tool for testing the effects of drugs and environmental toxins on people. The thin, eras-er-sized device allows air to be pumped into the layer of lung tissue — made from cells that line human air sacs — and then into the blood-vessel cells that surround them.

On July 1st, the HST comes into effect in Ontario. For many of the things you buy, like basic groceries, electronics and clothing, there will be no change in sales tax. The sales tax on some goods and services will increase — including things like gas, electricity and haircuts. Here's a list of common goods and services and how they will be affected.

Reputed drug lord to be extradited

Jamaican gang leader Christopher (Dudus) Coke agreed to be extradited to the United States on Thursday, saying it was in the best interest of his family and country. Coke, whose supporters clashed with security forces last month in street battles that killed 76 people, waived his right to an extradition trial at his first appearance before a Jamaican judge.

Moments later, dozens of mostly Latin American immigrants who crossed the tracks instead of using an underground passageway to reach a beach party in a seaside resort were dead or injured, their body parts strewn among the rails.

The express train that barrelled through the station in northeastern Spain plowed into a group of young men and women that included Ecuadoreans, Chileans, Colombians and Bolivians — leaving 13 people dead, injuring 14 and turning a night of celebration into carnage.

accident since 2003 took place during a nationwide ritual on the longest day of the year called Noche de San Juan, or the night of St. John.

The crowd got off a commuter train in the beach resort of Castelldefels, a 20-minute train ride outside of Barcelona, shortly before midnight Wednesday. Many jammed an underpass leading to the beach, but about 30 others climbed down from the platform and tried to scurry across the tracks, witnesses said.

Seconds later, a long-distance train that does not stop at the station crashed into the youths at high speed as its drivers sounded the whistle.

Marcelo Cardona, who was on the train, said everyone aboard had been looking forward to dancing around a bonfire on the Mediterranean shore.

"The euphoria of getting off the train immediately became screams. There were people screaming, 'My daughter! My sister!" said Cardona, a 34-year-old Bolivian. He said he saw "mutilated people, blood everywhere, blood on the platform."

Nationwide protests over auterity measures

Trains stood still and children played instead of studied as workers around France went on strike Thursday to protest President Nicolas Sarkozy's plans to raise the retirement age to 62.

Paris commuters and their neighbours suffered as walkouts by drivers delayed or cancelled trains from Italy and Switzerland. Boisterous crowds filled Marseille's port and Paris avenues, as unions staged nearly 200 marches in several cities over a broad reform to the money-losing pension system, part of efforts around Europe to cut back on growing debts.

"Sarkozy, Don't Touch our Pensions!" read one banner at the Paris march, near a cardboard coffin marked: "Here lies Roger. He's 60, and he died before getting his retirement."

The Interior Ministry put the number of protesters around France at 797,000.

France has one of Europe's lowest retirement ages, allowing workers to retire at 60 in most sectors. The government says the reform to the pension system is an "obligation," given France's burgeoning deficit and its aging popula-THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Israel set to expel Hamas politicians

Israel's decision to expel four Hamas politicians from Jerusalem threatened to set off a new crisis over the disputed city and could hinder U.S. efforts to restart peace talks.

The expulsions of the three Palestinian lawmakers and a former Cabinet minister could start as early as Friday. Israel has not said where they would be sent, but the West Bank is a possible destination.

a possible destination.
Israel revoked their Jerusalem residency rights in 2006 and arrested them because they belong to Hamas, the Islamic militant group that controls the Gaza Strip and has carried out scores of deadly attacks against Israelis. The expulsion orders were delayed because the men have been in prison until recently.

Israel has stripped thousands of Palestinians of their residency rights in east Jerusalem since capturing and annexing the area in the 1967 Mideast War. However, human rights activists said Israel has never before stripped Palestinians of Jerusalem residency because of their political affiliation.

"This is a very dangerous precedent," Palestinian President Mahmoud Abbas said. "We won't accept it. We won't just overlook it." He said the Israeli government was creating "the biggest obstacles yet on the path to peace."

News in brief

TERRORISM Five young American Muslims were convicted of plotting terrorist attacks and sentenced to 10 years in jail Thursday in a case that highlights concerns about Westerners travelling to Pakistan to link up with al-Qaida and other extremist groups. Prosecutors said email records, documents and witness statements proved the men from the Washington, D.C., area used the Internet to plot terror attacks in Pakistan and allied nations and meet militant organizations in the country. They sought life imprisonment for the defendants.

'Very drunk' man on pool float rescued in Gulf of Mexico

FLORIDA A man who apparently passed out on a pool float at a Tampa area beach ended up drifting about a mile from Florida's shore in the Gulf of Mexico.

The U.S. Coast Guard

The U.S. Coast Guard rescued the man on Wednesday afternoon.

Coast Guard Petty Officer First Class Mariana O'Leary told the St. Petersburg Times they suspect the man was very drunk.

The Coast Guard says a boater reported seeing an unconscious man floating well offshore. The Coast Guard and a Clearwater Fire Rescue unit responded and found the man, still unconscious and wearing a life jacket.

He eventually woke up and was checked by paramedics at a Coast Guard station.

O'Leary said the Pinellas County Sheriff's Office will investigate the incident.

Arrest shows terror reform flaws: Critics

Not long ago, Abdullah Sunata was a poster child for Indonesia's efforts to persuade terrorists to give up their violent ways.

But immediately after his release on good behaviour one year ago, Sunata allegedly returned to his ways, catapulting to the top of the country's most-wanted list.

He was arrested Wednesday for suspected involvement in a plot to carry out a Mumbai-style attack in Jakarta, and several highprofile assassinations, including one on President Susilo Bambang Yudhoyono. Sunata's turnaround, experts say, highlights weaknesses in the predominantly Muslim country's

Toxins turn up in whales

NATURE American scientists who spent five years shooting nearly 1,000 sperm whales with tissuesampling darts discovered stunningly high levels of toxic and heavy metals in the animals on their 140,000-kilometre voyage, according to a report obtained Thursday.

The levels of cadmium, aluminum, chromium, lead, silver, mercury and titanium could affect the health of both ocean life and the people who consume seafood, the scientists say.

Analysis of cells from the sperm whales showed that pollution is reaching the farthest corners of the oceans, said biologist Roger Payne, founder and president of Ocean Alliance.

News boss, group await DNA result

Argentina's leading newspaper publisher must pay the consequences if genetic tests show the children she adopted three decades ago were stolen from prisoners of the dictatorship, a leading human rights activist says.

Estela de Carlotto, president of the Grandmothers of the Plaza de Mayo, spoke with The Associated Press on Wednesday as Argentines anxiously await the results of DNA tests being done to resolve a nineyear legal battle over the identities of the adopted children of Ernestina Herrera de Noble, the owner of Grupo Clarin, who is an opponent of President Cristina Fernandez.

The children themselves — Marcela and Felipe Noble Herrera — told the AP in a separate interview earlier this month that they feel like hostages in the fight.

They said there is no concrete evidence they were stolen as babies from political prisoners and don't want to see their 84-year-old mother go to jail.

De Carlotto denied her group is in an alliance with Argentina's government — which has accelerated human rights trials — to destroy their mother's media company. She said the grandmothers simply want truth and justice for victims of the dictatorship.

Hundreds of babies were born in clandestine torture centres during the 1976-83 dictatorship, which human rights groups believe killed as many as 30,000 of the regime's political opponents. The Grandmothers have helped recover 101 of these children so far, and believe the Noble Herreras are among up to 400 others who still don't know their true identities.

Their DNA will be compared to that of nearly 240 other families who provided samples.

New Summer Service

On Sunday, June 27, new summer schedules go into effect on most routes to reflect the reduced demand for service in the summer.

You should obtain a new timetable for most peak period and express routes as well as the following routes: 2, 5, 7, 8, 9, 12, 14, 18, 85, 95, 96, 97, 98, 99, 101/102, 106, 112, 114, 116, 118, 124, 126, 129, 130, 131, 140, 145, 146, 147, 148, 149, 152, 156, 163, 164, 166, 171 through 178 and 306.

Highlights

- Two morning and afternoon trips will be extended from Millennium Park & Ride to Montmere at the Blackburn Bypass, which will reduce walking distances for customers and bring service closer to new residential areas.
- 96 Service will be extended from Hurdman to Blair Station on weekdays during peak periods and the mid-day for improved connections and options for customers.
- 283 The first two morning trips will no longer travel via Bayshore Station and Pinecrest unless a passenger makes a request stop. Buses will remain on Highway 417 to the Transitway at Queensway Station in order to provide a faster trip for customers.

O-Train Rehabilitation

The O-Train track and trains will undergo major rehabilitation work this summer. Improvements to the track, the train and the Rideau River bridge are maintenance measures needed to ensure safe and reliable service. A portion of this work is funded through the Federal Infrastructure Stimulus Initiative.

A special bus service will replace the O-Train for five weeks from July 12 to August 14. Visit octranspo.com for the schedule and map or call 613-741-4390.

Downtown Station Improvements

Renovations are underway downtown at Bank and Kent Stations on Albert and Slater Streets that are designed to improve operational efficiencies, safety and customer comfort, while enhancing the appearance of the downtown core. Bay Station on Slater will be renovated later this summer.

Improvements include new platform waiting areas, spacious shelters, more attractive street furniture, better grading and drainage, and wiring for future telecommunications. This project is partly funded by the Federal Infrastructure Stimulus Initiative.

Renovations will be ongoing through the summer until mid-September. Thank you for your patience.

It reminded me a bit of the blackout of 2003, when news passed by word of mouth between strangers, volunteers directed traffic in the absence of lights and worries about looting and anarchy in the dark proved chimerical.

Sirens sounded regularly Wednesday as emergency vehicles hurried absurdly here and there, but where exactly do you respond to a quake that's felt as far away as Chicago? Slow down, buddy, wherever you are, you're already

he long-awaited release of the government's Air India 182 report held little solace for the families of the 280 Canadians and 49 others who died over the Irish Sea June 23, 1985. Sixteen years before 9-11, it was at the time the deadliest terrorist attack in North American history

I know a little about this case because I lived it. In fact, it directly altered the course of my life. My father was a lead RCMP investigator on the simultaneous Tokyo Narita Airport bombing, which killed two baggage handlers. Had CP Air 003 not landed 14 minutes early, there would have been many more dead Canadians off the coast of Japan. While he's never specifically told me it was the case, I'm fairly certain the toll the investigation took on my dad convinced him to ultimately take retirement five years earlier than he would have meaning we had to move

While the recent final report on Air India rightfully placed blame on CSIS and the RCMP for failing to prevent both disasters, it's worth noting there were many fine investigators, including my father, who helped produce the only criminal conviction in either case — proving in court in 1991 that Inderjit Singh Reyat built the bomb that blew apart Japanese bag handlers Hideo Asano and Hideharu Koda. But in a country where many dismissed Air India 182 as an "Indian" tragedy, Narita would never get much media play in Canada.

It's long been suspected, but never proven, that Reyat was involved with the Air India bomb as well, perhaps something lost in the inexcusable disconnect between the then-new intelligence establishment and the national police force. CSIS had only been created less than a year earlier, virtually all its staff transplants from the old RCMP Security Service. A retired RCMP and CSIS person once told me that despite the shared roots, there were still areas of distrust between the two agencies. Why is anybody's guess.

There's no question the flaws of the RCMP and CSIS were, and are, deserving of criticism. But remember, they are both staffed with humans, people who work hard and succeed at protecting lives in obscurity, often at great personal cost. And only get attention when they screw up.

New iPhone sells out

Apple Inc.'s newest iPhone was selling briskly Thursday as thousands lined up outside stores around the world to snag one amid concerns of supply shortages.

Some stores including ones in Tokyo, Miami, San Francisco and Charlotte, N.C., sold out within hours as the iPhone 4 went on sale in the U.S., France, Germany, the U.K. and Japan. Apple called the demand for the phone "off the charts" and said it's working hard to get phones into customers' hands as quickly as possible.

Italy coach takes the blame

Marcello Lippi delivered a scathing verdict on his humiliated team Thursday after Italy was sent tumbling out of the World Cup by Slovakia, confessing he failed to motivate his aging squad that had played with fear.

After the defending champion was eliminated Thursday without winning a game in one of the tournament's easiest groups, the veteran Italy coach had to accept the truth that everyone else had seen.

"I take full responsibili-ty," Lippi said after the 3-2 loss to Slovakia. "I thought this team could do more and that's what I prepared it to do, but when you see a team that plays with fear in their legs and in their hearts you understand that you have failed."

Grown Ups one lazy comedy

Grown Ups

Director: Dennis Dugan Stars: Adam Sandler, Chris Rock, Kevin James Classification: PG Rating: @@

PHIL BROWN for Metro Canada

Another year, another Adam Sandler movie. When this guy left Saturday Night Live in 1995 no one expected him to become the biggest comedy star in Hollywood, but somehow he's managed to make a career out of playing lovable losers that get the girl and solve some sort of high concept conundrum.

Grown Ups is Sandler's latest film and quite possibly his laziest yet. The concept is that Sandler and his real life buddies Chris Rock, Kevin James, David

Spade, and Rob Schneider meet up for a reunion at a giant cottage.

The final product makes it clear that Sandler just wanted to hang out with these guys for a few months and they kind of made a movie when they weren't enjoying the vacation, but probably weren't paying much attention.

The plot (such as it is) sees Sandler and co. reuniting over the death of their former basketball coach.

Even though they only spent a few years with the coach as teenagers, he insisted that they all attend his funeral. Weirdly, it seems as though the coach had no family, because soon they're in charge of dumping out the ashes and turn it into a weekend reunion.

Everyone has little problems when they arrive, but they don't matter that much and are all wrapped up in one painfully long weepy scene.

Other than that the movie is little more than a string of gags with the five friendly comedians trying to make each other laugh.

Admittedly, there are some chuckles to be had, but the best laughs most likely took place when cameras weren't rolling.

There's nothing wrong with lowbrow comedies that have no ambition beyond easy laughs, but Grown Ups is particularly lazy. Sandler's crude/sentimental shtick is getting old and it seems like he isn't even trying to tell stories anymore. The good news is that all these comedians clearly had a good time making a movie last summer. The bad news is that no one else was invited to the party.

Being Bella and loving it

Stewart still surprised by success of Twilight Saga

NED EHRBAR Metro World News

Kristen Stewart has played Bella Swan, the young woman at the centre of the hugely successful Twilight franchise, in three films now. But she isn't tired of her vampireloving alter-ego.

"It's super indulgent," she tells Metro. "Everybody always asks, 'It must be so exhausting, you must be so sick of her.' It's like, no. It's like writing a thesis as opposed to writing a paper.

It's a good thing she isn't sick of Bella yet, as Stewart has two more films to complete in the series. She spoke with Metro about splitting the last book into two parts, taking on On the Road and dealing with the madness of the MTV Movie Awards.

out over two movies?

I'm excited. I feel like the fans are going to love it because we're going to have the time to tell the whole story. What happens when you try to cram such a long story into an hour and a half, the first things that are skimmed off the top are the things I love the most, which is details and the little things that make the characters who they are.

Did you anticipate how much of a phenomenon it's become, or could you not have predicted it?

I don't think anybody could have. I've never seen anybody respond to a movie or a book the way I've seen some of these people respond. Initially, thought that we had a cult hit. We thought that our little Twilight fan group is going to love our movie

Airbender's Rathbone rising

PHIL BROWN for Metro Canada

FEATURE Jackson Rathbone might be set to make tween girls and middleaged woman squeal with delight next week in the new Twilight movie, but that's not the film that he's most excited to be a part of this summer.
Instead, Rathbone is dropped for the movie for obvious reasons) about a world separated into distinct popula-tions based on their ability to control one of the four elements.

When a young child is discovered who can control all of the elements, he is cherished because he could bring peace to the divided world. Rathbone plays a member of the water tribe who helps the young boy on his journey. It's not exactly the type of movie that you'd expect to see from the director of tense thrillers like Signs and The Sixth Sense, but Rathbone revealed that M. Night Shyamalan's daughters played a role in convincing the director to stretch.

"Apparently his daughters were big fans of the show and it was their idea to do this movie. So he spread his wings and made a family film," said Rath-bone before clarifying, Well, not a family film in a sense that it's G-rated and cows are talking to pigs. This is a film with so much action that everyone's going to love it."

Much like the TV series that inspired it, the film will be filled with complex action sequences guaranteed to thrill audiences. It's a big part of what drew Rathbone to the project and he was thrilled to play an action hero.

"I probably did about 90 per cent of my fights and it was a blast," said Rathbone. "I got to work with some of the premiere stuntmen and stuntwomen in the industry. I met guys who played James Bond back when it was Sean Connery and would jump out of air-planes and do the most amazing things."

Couples on the run

he road trip is part of the American psyche dating back to the young men (and women) who took Horace Greeley's famous advice —"Go west young man!"— to heart and left the east for the frontier.

Hollywood saw the allure early on, recognizing that road movies offer opportunities to inject exciting secondary characters and interesting scenery into stories each time the leads stop in a new town. Add to that the sexy appeal of two people running for their lives and you have a new genre — the fugitive couple movie.

Whether it is the doomed Henry Fonda and Sylvia Sydney on the lam in 1937s You Only Live Once or Tom Cruise and Cameron Diaz's worldwide trek in this weekend's Knight and Day, the idea of runaways on the open road has been irresistible to filmmakers.

One early fugitive road movie is Persons in Hiding, a nasty 1939 film based on J. Edgar Hoover's bestselling book of the same name. J. Carrol Naish stars as a small-time hood on the run with Dorothy Bronson (Patricia Morison).

Together they rob banks and even kidnap a hapless stranger all to appease Ms. Bronson's appetite for champagne and furs. Of course, this being based on Hoover's book, the pair isn't mythologized à la Bonnie and Clyde. No, the heroes here are the FBI who use their "infallible" methods to bring the couple to justice.

Better known is The Getaway, Sam Peckinpah's violent love letter to criminal behaviour. Based on a 1959 pulp novel by Jim Thompson, it stars Steve Mc-Queen as a cocky safecracker who hits the road with Ali MacGraw following a botched holdup.

Panned on its original release — Roger Ebert called it "a big, glossy, impersonal mechanical toy" - it was a box office success, partly because of the ruckus the tabloids made when MacGraw left her husband, producer Robert Evans, for McQueen during production.

More recently crime and scandal were at the heart of Natural Born Killers, a satire of media sensationalism and America's love affair with violence. Woody Harrelson and Juliette Lewis play married murderers — "the best thing to happen to mass murder since Manson" on a cross country killing spree.

Toy Story 3

REVIEW The folks at Pixar have returned to the characters of their first movie, now 15 years past, and come up with an inspired. intelligent and entertaining film expertly straddling the line between kids and adults entertainment. The latest instalment finds Woody (Tom Hanks), Buzz Lightyear (Tim Allen) and the rest of the familiar toys of the first two films fretting over their owner Andy's impending departure to college. After be-coming convinced they're headed for the trash heap, the toys mount an escape that lands them in the apparent Shangri-La of a local day-care centre, where the toy world is overseen by a deceivingly cuddly old teddy bear (Ned Beatty). While kids will certainly enjoy the movie, don't be surprised to find most of the adult audience needing tissues. The visuals are spectacular enough without 3-D, and the technology doesn't add enough to warrant the higher ticket price.

The Karate Kid

REVIEW To anyone alive in the 1980s, the Karate Kid legend is a familiar one. In this reboot, Jaden Smith (son of Will and Jada) stars in the role Ralph Macchio made a Reagan era icon. The story's been freshened by a move to Beijing but the filmmakers wisely kept the underdog coming-ofage tale front and centre. Smith is the film's centre-piece. He's clearly still a novice, but has inherited the best bits of his mother and father's collective gene pools (he got his mother's ears! Yay!) and has charisma to burn. He's ably assisted by co-star Jackie Chan, who brings warmth and personality to Mr. Han.

Get Him to the Greek

REVIEW Just as Judd Apatow made stars out of unlikely actors Seth Rogen and Jason Segel, Get Him to the Greek aims to turn Russell Brand and plumpy Jonah Hill into Hollywood's latest A-listers. And it may just do it. A spin-off to the 2008 Apatow-produced hit Forgetting Sarah Marshall, this tale about a record executive hopeful named Aaron (Hill) and his lascivious, out-of-control rock 'n' roll charge (Brand, reviving Marshall's Aldous Snow character) anchors grossout gags by giving the bedlam a heart.

Comeback kid

Sarah Harmer holds her fire on new album

GRAHAM ROCKINGHAM for Metro Canada

Five years is a long time between albums in the pop music world.

Many artists would have released at least two studio CDs during that time, maybe a DVD and a live album as well.

We can excuse Sarah Harmer's long break between albums, though. She's been preoccupied.

For the past five years, Harmer has been at the centre of a fight to block a proposed gravel quarry on a picturesque piece of the Niagara Escarpment near her childhood home in rural north Burlington, Ont.

The Juno-winning singersongwriter's time has been taken up with raising funds, hiring consultants, lobbying politicians, studying scientific reports and "It's definitely an album based around human emotions, experiences and relationships from a personal perspective."

prepping for a seemingly endless series of land-use hearings.

If anything, it's surprising that she found any time at all to write and record her new CD, Oh Little Fire, which was released this week.

"Yeah, it was a long time coming," Harmer agrees in an interview from her home near Kingston. "But perspective is pretty important when it comes to time."

Harmer admits it wasn't easy to pick up songs that, in some cases, she had started years earlier.

"I started a few of them a long time ago," she explains. "I'd have an idea for a song — a melody, a verse, a little bit of sentiment — to get back to it and make something complete, that took a while."

Her previous album, I'm a Mountain, was released in 2005 shortly after she had formed the environmental group PERL (Protecting Escarpment Rural Land) to fight the quarry proposal. It was an acoustic record with a country tinge and filled with the politics of the environment. It made the short list for the Polaris Music Prize for top Canadian album. An accompanying DVD won a Juno award.

Politics is largely absent from the songs of Oh Little Fire. One track, Washington, is about her regret at not travelling to the U.S. capital to for President Barack Obama's inauguration Songs about the environment, however, are noticeably lacking.

"No, there aren't any overt land-use issues commented on," she laughs. "It's definitely an album based around human emotions, experiences and relationships from a personal perspective."

To help guide her transition back to the recording studio, Harmer reached out to old friend and producer Gavin Brown. Brown, best known for his work with rock bands like Billy Talent, had played drums on Harmer's 2000 breakthrough album You Were Here.

Brown's influence brought electric guitars and keyboards back into the mix. Only one track — Silverado, sung with the help of alt-country queen Neko Case — contains the rootsy feel of I'm A Mountain.

"(Brown) was a huge part of making this record," she says. "He really kicked it in for me. ... I had all these songs in my mind for a long time. He helped me express them."

Art of cover art

Sound Check Alan Cross metronews.ca/soundcheck

here was a time when I had beautiful handwriting, a lovely cursive script distinctive jaunty with flourishes with the uppercase "A" and the lowercase "g" and "j." But no more. Keyboards — first an IBM Selectric and then a computer - completely destroyed my ability to write in longhand.

Today, I'd have better reading ancient Sumerian runic symbols than anything I might have written down in the last 10 minutes. The only way I can be remotely legible is to jot down every-thing in ALL CAPS.

This is kind of what happened to album artwork. În the old days, LP offered a 12-by-12 pallet (double that if you include the back) that could be a source of mystic, wonder and legend: the man with the sticks on Led Zeppelin IV; Paul McCartney barefoot and out of step on Abbey Road; the swimming baby of Nevermind. Who knows how many albums were sold on the strength of a Roger Dean painting or a surreal Hipignosis landscape? And how careers many were launched as a result of the amazing packaging created by Factory Records?

Album artwork was mortally wounded by the CD and rendered almost irrelevant by the MP3. Yet there are still those who believe in its power — like Eminem.

Frankly, I'm not the biggest Eminem fan, but I did buy his new record, Recovery, partly because of the album's alternate cover. The image, created by British photographer Nigel Parry, is set in Hart Plaza in Detroit next to the Renaissance Center, the headquaters of General Motors.

The place is deserted save for Eminem in his hermetically sealed Perspex box with his couch, flat screen TV and some reading material.

There are several layers and multiple interpretations within this shot. There's Em's stints in rehab - prompted by an accidentally overdose of methadone - where he recovered from addictions to Vicodin, Valium and Ambien. But because he's in a box, what does that say about his state of mind and self-perception?
There's Detroit and the auto industry's wished-for recovery and, dare we say renaissance after decades of decline. But why is the plaza deserted?

Before you hear a single note or rhyme, Recovery is mysterious, disturbing and thought-provoking thanks to the artwork. And isn't that great to see for a change?

Stars' ghostly sounds

GRAHAM ROCKINGHAM for Metro Canada

Those twin little girls who hang out in the halls of Stanley Kubrick's horror classic The Shining, have a lot in common with the Stars' new CD The Five Ghosts.

On the outside, they're all cute ribbons and curls. But on the inside, they're lost souls, crying out in agony from the depths of the netherworld.

"That's a huge influence

"That's a huge influence on my life, that movie, The Shining," says Stars' founder Torquil Campbell. "I think we've always had that in our music."

Campbell is talking about the eerie pop-synth mix that comes about when Stars' lead singer Amy Millan's childlike voice meets the ghoulish nature of new songs like Dead Hearts,

The Five Ghosts is the new album from Canadian indie act Stars.

Winter Bones and I Died So I Could Haunt You. "That's always some-

"That's always something we've tried to do in the songs," Campbell explains, "To take subject matter that was sort of the opposite of the music you were hearing.

"So you receive the music in one way and then you receive the story within the music in another way. That creates the tension and unease between the two things. I think the best pop music is about that tension, achieving a kind of halfway point between joy and darkness." Campbell says the dark

Campbell says the dark nature of the material also came honestly to the band's five members who wrote the 11 new tracks collectively.

"Definitely ghosts, the loss of people, death, all "The best pop music is about ... achieving a kind of halfway point between joy and darkness." Torquil Cambell those things were a part of this year for all of us. We had a tough year that way. My dad passed away and people were born (Campbell and his wife have a baby daughter). And Chris (Seligman, keyboardist) had this bizarre episode in Vancouver of being haunted and literally having to leave his apartment in the middle of the night.

"So right from the get-go there was this something pointing us toward talking about this stuff. It kind of came upon us. It wasn't something that we decided to do."

Say goodbye to As the World Turns

YouTube: Dr. Bob Hughes lunching with a fellow doctor in a scene aired live on As the World Turns the afternoon of Nov. 22, 1963.

"Shall we get a menu?" Hughes says to his dining companion. "Waiter! I'd like to order. I'm kind of hungry."

That scene was the last the TV audience would see of As the World Turns that day as CBS News seized the schedule for continuous coverage of President John Kennedy's assassination.

The young, dark-headed actor who played Dr. Bob, as well as the rest of the cast, completed the show shielded from both the fact of its pre-emption and the terrible reason why.

Only after the episode's final fade-out did they learn of the tragedy, as the actor portraying Dr. Bob, Don Hastings, recalled one day last week.

Now 76 and handsomely silver-haired, Hastings was in his dressing room between scenes at the Brooklyn studio the series has called home the past decade. He was still playing Dr. Bob — lately the head of Oakdale Memorial Hospital and, as always, endowed with a perfect bedside manner — just a few months shy of 50 years after landing the part.

But Hastings won't get to reach his half-century milestone in October, On Sept. 17, TV's oldest daytime drama will fold.

On Wednesday, ATWT wrapped production forever.

"It's been a job and a home and friendships for 50 years," said Hastings, an avuncular, era-spanning presence as he pondered the series' end. "I don't think it's hit me yet."

O'Loughlin excited for Moonlight rebirth

NED EHRBAR Metro World News

Alex O'Loughlin has become a regular presence on TV screens with work on The Shield. Moonlight and Three Rivers — and this fall he'll star in a remake of Hawaii

Recently seen in theaters opposite Jennifer Lopez in the romantic comedy The Back-up Plan, the Australian actor returns to the small screen this summer as The CW resurrects all 16 episodes of Moonlight, in which he plays a sexy, do-gooding vampire detective.

Moonlight was originally canceled by CBS in 2008. Are vou tired of getting questions about vampires?

I did Moonlight because I love the genre and because I really believed in the show, and I will always love the genre. I think it's the coolest. I would totally play a vam-pire again — if it was the right thing. I'll never be sick of vampires.

Your character is a conscientious bloodsucker. Do you have a preference between playing heroes or villains?

I feel like when I'm playing a villain, I can get away with a lot more. You go, "Hey, listen, what if this guy had a tattoo on his face?" And the director's like, "Yeah! That's f—ing evil!" But as the hero, you're like, "Hey, can we ...?" "No! You're the hero. Just look and smile."

Alex O'Loughlin appeared in the cult hit Moonlight which was canceled in 2008 but The CW will air all 16 episodes this summer.

As the World Turns actor Don Hastings, 76, has portrayed Dr. Bob in the soap opera for nearly 50 years. The final episode of the series, which has been running since 1956, was filmed this week and will air on Sept. 17. Last summer CBS cut Guiding Light which has been on the air for 72 years.

Carey sued for pooch payment

'Celebrity' vet claims the singer stiffed her for $30,000 bill

Mariah Carey is in the doghouse with a veterinarian who says the pop superstar hasn't paid nearly $30,000 in bills for three of her prized pooches.

Veterinarian Cindy Bressler sued Carey on Wednesday in a Manhattan state court.

Bressler provided "extraordinary services" for the Jack Russell terriers — Cha-Cha, Dolomite and JJ — but the Grammy Awardwinning singer paid only about $8,200 of the roughly $37,800 in charges, the lawsuit says. The bills cover a little more than a month of care.

Bressler's lawyer, Michael C. Posner, declined to elaborate on the dogs' treatment. Bressler, whose website notes that she makes house calls in New York City and the Hamptons and caters to "prominent New Yorkers and celebrity clients," didn't immediately respond to an email message seeking comment.

Carey's spokeswoman didn't immediately respond to telephone and email messages.

The pop diva has made her dogs something of characters in her multiplatinum-selling career, including in some comic video sketches made as part of an MTV.com promotion and posted on YouTube. In one, she and JJ compare the fit of their jeans: "I told you those fatfree dog treats weren't fat-free," she scolds.

She also regularly chronicles her dogs' doings on her Twitter feed, from Cha-Cha urinating on her dressing room floor and jumping on her last September to Dolomite stealing her underwear out of a suitcase while she was vacationing in March.

Carey and husband Nick Cannon recently welcomed a new puppy this month, according to Carey's Twitter feed.

From child to adult star

Singer Cyrus is on her way to duplicating success with third album

It's not always easy for child stars to continue their career into adulthood, or even puberty. For every Justin Timberlake, there's a Debbie Gibson.

That's why Miley Cyrus was so excited when her songs, The Climb and Party in the U.S.A., became bona fide hits on the pop charts last year. The Climb hit No. 4 on Billboard's Hot 100 chart while Party in the U.S.A. stopped just short of becoming the No. 1 song in the nation.

While she has sold millions of records as an extension of her omnipresent Disney persona, Hannah Montana, those songs represented her biggest success to date as Miley — and she connected with more than just the tween audience.

"The Climb is the best thing that's ever happened to me," Miley said in a recent interview. "It went on ... every different kind of radio. I met everyone. I met 3year-olds, I met 30-year-olds, I met 80-year-olds. ... I got so many different fans."

The 17-year-old phenomenon is on her way to duplicating that success with her new album, Can't Be Tamed. The album's title track has already hit No. 8 on the charts.

But Miley is making more than a musical statement with the record. With songs like the title track and Robot, she's sending a message of a young woman who cannot be controlled.

"It's all about breaking free, being who you are and not being afraid to tell the world to back off sometimes, and do your thing and do what makes you happy," she said of the CD.

What makes Miley happy, however, doesn't always make others happy. And the more she inches to adulthood, the more critics she seems to garner for behaviour deemed age inappropriate

There was the 2008 dustup over the Vanity Fair photo where it made her look topless, wrapped in a bedsheet (she says she was not). She danced with a stripper pole at the 2009 Teen Choice Awards. This year, video surfaced of Miley giving one of the producers of her film The Last Song a lap dance at the wrap party.

Earlier this month she simulated a girl-on-girl kiss while performing on Britain's Got Talent, and on the Much Music Awards, she gyrated onstage while wearing a revealing outfit. Joan Ulrich, of Northville, Mich., worries about the affect Miley's recent behaviour will have on her young nieces.

"Their mom bought them tickets to see her show and they were so excited about her. They had her videos, T-shirts, the whole thing," she said. "Then she evolves into this sex kitten and there's no control with her."

But Miley brushes off her critics, deeming them unsatisfied and unhappy with their own lives.

"It's just kind of a sad thing to think about people and how they are. I never really let it affect me," she adds. "My mom is at the side of that stage and if I ever felt I was disappointing her or not making her proud, I would not do the things I do, but she's proud of me every time."

Author Bret Easton Ellis

Ellis goes back to Zero

DOROTHY ROBINSON Metro World News

For Bret Easton Ellis, it turns out that you can go home again. Twenty-five years after he burst onto the literary scene with Less Than Zero, a novel that encompassed the bleak ennui of an '80s Los Angeles.

Ellis is back living in his hometown and has returned to Zero's cast of characters in the just-released sequel, Imperial Bedrooms.

Nice author photo! It seems to sum up your L.A. life.

Every single author photo I have has been carefully choreographed. I wanted this to look older and douchier than that louche young man in a loosened tie I took when I was 21 for Less Than Zero. This one took two days to pull off.

So in 30 years, your author photo will be in a nursing home? [Laughs] One day.

Why the title Imperial Bedrooms?

The use of violence - especially against women — is always a lightning rod for your work. Are you ever surprised by how many fans you have when your writing can be so Maybe that's why I have so many fans. Really. Do people only respond to sympathy and lightness? If that were the only thing people liked, then 80 per cent of the literary canon wouldn't have been read. It's a tired complaint — the violence in my work. Look, this is how I feel. I'm writing within a fictional context. It isn't something I am thinking about when I'm having dinner.

Now a California resident, and a once-infamous New Yorker do you he ever missed living there.

No, I don't. Every now and again there is a pang. I'll read something somewhere about a party or see a Patrick McMullan photo and think, 'Oh yeah! I would have gone to that.' And then I think, 'Thank God I don't have to go that," he says. "It was a great run, 17 really fun years. The party just ends for some people.

LGBT teens finally get a novel voice

At his Kentucky elementary school, kids taunted Brent on the play ground about being gay, whatever that was. By eighth grade, he realized what they meant and came out to a friend and vice versa.

She was an avid writer. he a voracious reader. They headed their school library in search of stories that spoke to their lives: gay, gay in the South, gay fearing and stereotypes like "disgusting"

ug and "worthless." "There were tons of books about gangs and drugs and teen preg-nancy and there were no LGBT books. I asked the librarian about it and she was like, 'This is middle school. I can only have appropriate books here, said Brent, now 15 and heading into his sopho-more year of high school. So they went to their public library, where they discovered plenty of romantic gay steam between covers — for adults. "We weren't complaining," said Brent, who asked that his last name and hometown not be used.

Turning next to bookstores, they finally found what they'd been looking for — a recent explosion in the publishing world of reads that speak to lesbian, gay, bisexual, transgender and questioning teens.

First came a gem, a book for young people that made them cry: Martin Wilson's 2008 debut, What They Always Tell Us, set in Tuscaloosa, Ala. The story about a troubled year for two brothers, one of whom finds solace in a relationship with a boy, made him feel less like an "alien on your own planet.

A world of books followed. Brent read his way through Tom Dolby, Robin Reardon, Julie Ann Peters and David Levithan.

Books that speak to lesbian, gay, bisexual, transgender and questioning teens have travelled light since Donoyears John Donovan's I'll Get There. It Bet-ter be Worth the Trip led the way in 1969, now long out of print. The book on the confused world of 13year-old Davy and the jock he kisses will be reissued in September from Flux, an imprint of Llewellyn Worldwide.

Well before gay characters began popping up in the mainstream on TV and at the movies, librarians embraced I'll Get There, said Kathleen T. Horning, director of the Co-operative Children's Book Center of the School of Education at the University of Wisconsin-Madison Still, until now few LGBT titles became blockbusters. That changed with two boys named Will Grayson and a very large, very GLEE-ful linebacker named Tiny.

Will Grayson, Will Grayson, by Levithan and John Green, debuted on the New York Times children's bestseller list and stayed there for three weeks after its April release. It's a first for a young adult novel with major gay themes and has delighted hungry teen readers — fanboys and fan-girls who were the likely reason the book became a trending topic on Twitter. Penguin has 60,000 copies in print. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Superman to take a tour around America

COMICS The Man of Steel will hoof it across America to reconnect with everyday people in a story that will feature actual cities, towns and neighbourhoods submitted by readers.

Superman, one of DC Comics' flagship fictional heroes, begins his journey next month in Philadelphia, where he'll embark on a 12-issue, cross-country walk — no flying, thank you — through Illinois, Iowa, Nebraska, Colorado, Utah, Nevada, California, Oregon and Washington. Not on the travel itinerary is a swing through the Deep South.

Dan DiDio, DC's co-publisher, told The Associated Press Wednesday that the Krypton-born, Kansas-bred hero had lost touch "with the people he grew up with, his adopted home on Earth" and he'll "take a walk across America to reconnect.

In a bid to keep the story arc fresh in the age of instant communication and social media, readers of the comic who live within 80

DiDio said DC is "looking to hear what people have to say, how the character affected their lives" and, he added, "more importantly, what the character means to them."

The story will be scripted by veteran film, television and comic writer J. Michael Straczynski, whose previous work includes DC's The Red Circle books and Marvel's Thor and Fantastic Four.

BET Awards branch out

The BET Awards are in an all-embracing mood.

Tween heartthrob Justin Bieber and Disney star Selena Gomez are among nominees. three brand-new artists will debut on the show, and for the first time in its 10-year history, the BET Awards will begin with a big musical number that may remind viewers of Glee.

"This is the biggest show we've ever done," said Stephen Hill, BET's president of music programming and specials. "All I can say is you're going to want to tune in for Queen Latifah's opening.

The coy executive producer wouldn't confirm the "Glee" connection, but praised host Latifah's varied skills: "She acts, sings, raps — and might be taking tap lessons.

Sunday's show marks Kanye West's first televised appearance since Taylor-Gate at last year's MTV Video Music Awards, when the rapper swiped the microphone from stunned "Best Female Video" winner Taylor Swift and declared that Beyoncé should have won the award. He's been keeping a low profile since the onslaught of bad publicity almost a year ago.

Everybody wants to see what Kanye's doing," Hill

Expect a musical tribute

Last year's BET Awards, held just days after Michael Jackson's death, celebrated the late King of Pop with a series of tributes. Another is planned for Sunday's show, Hill

"We're going to recognize it's been a year since he passed," he said. "All tributes have been missing one thing, and we are providing the one thing

every other tribute has been missing." Ever coy, Hill declined

He said that Sunday's BET Awards have been energized by the inclusion of young artists such as Drake and Nicki Minaj, and Gomez and Bieber,

to be specific.

BET's Stephen Hill

said. "I saw him in March and he said, 'I'm staying out of sight and I'm going to come back strong at the BET Awards.'

Also making a come-back Sunday is T.I., in his first televised performance since the 29-year-old rapper was released from prison in December.

John Legend, who will receive BET's humanitarian award, said he's thrilled to participate in the show again, and especially honoured to be recognized.

Legend said his charitable work through the Show Me campaign, which aims to eradicate poverty through education and health care, "has never been about awards, but about making a real difference in people's lives.

"Hopefully this award will inspire others to do the same," Legend said.

Prince will also be honoured Sunday with BET's achievement lifetime

"That Prince is going to electricity, and it really crosses all lines."

The BET Awards honour the year's best in music, sports and film. Jay-Z leads nominees with five nods, while Beyoncé, Alicia Keys, Trey Songz and Melanie Fiona have four nominations each.

The awards will be presented at the Shrine Auditorium and broadcast live on BET.

The BET Awards are adding some youth to the mix with Canadian artists such as Justin Bieber and Drake, seen here at the MMVAs.
